

INGLÊS SEM NEURA

por Jorge Henrique

E-book: Just, yet & already
Inglês Sem Neura

Just

É geralmente usado com o tempo present perfect e indica algo que acabou de acontecer.

“I’ve just seen Susan coming out of the movies.”

“Eu acabei de ver a Susan saindo do cinema.”

“Brian’s just called. Can you call him back, please?”

“O Brian acabou de ligar. Você pode retornar, por favor?”

Already

É usado para dizer sobre algo que aconteceu cedo ou mais cedo do que poderia ter acontecido. É usado em frases afirmativas.

“I’ve already spent my salary and it’s two week before pay day.”

“Eu já gastei o meu salário e falta duas semanas para o pagamento.”

“The train’s already left! What are we going to do?”

“O trem já saiu! O que vamos fazer?”

ALREADY geralmente vem no meio da frase.

Yet

É usado para falar sobre algo que é esperado acontecer. É usado em perguntas e frases negativas.

“Have you finished your homework yet?”

“Você já terminou a sua lição de casa?”

“I haven’t finished it yet. I’ll do it after dinner.”

“Eu não terminei ainda. Eu farei depois do jantar.”

YET geralmente vem no fim da frase.

JUST ALREADY YET

We use just when an action happened recently:

"I have just eaten breakfast."

We use already when an action happened sooner than expected:

"I have already finished page 20."

We use yet when we think an action will happen soon:

"I haven't eaten lunch yet."

Complete alguns exemplos:

Have you finished your homework _____?

I've _____ read those books you lent me, have you got any more?

Take your shoes off! I've _____ cleaned the floor!

I haven't been to the new library _____, have you?

Oh not "Titanic" again! I've _____ seen that film twice!

Oh! I'm sorry you've _____ missed Janet. She's gone to the bank.

Why has Janet gone to the bank? She's _____ been there twice this week?

I've _____ cleaned the lounge and I just have the bedrooms to do now.

Bob's in the living room. He's _____ arrived home from work.

I haven't had dinner _____. I was just having a rest.

Maria, have you made the beds _____?

Sally has only _____ started her homework!

Has Bob opened his presents _____ ?

Sally has _____ done her maths,, she just has her French to do now.

Has the postman come _____?

Don't leave _____! I want to speak to you.

Someone's _____ put a letter in the door.

"What time is Bob arriving?" "He's _____ arrived, he's talking to the boss."

"Shall I make dinner?" "No, I've _____ made it, it's in the oven."

I've _____ seen Chris crossing the road. He must be coming here.

Have you been to the new library _____?

yet, already, just,
yet, already, just,
already, already, just,
yet, yet, just,
yet, already, yet,
yet, just, just,
already, just, yet.

Entre em contato:

inglessemneura.com.br

